School Board Report

To the Citizens of the Town of Carroll:

In presenting our annual report we wish to call to your attention the repairs made to the walls of the school gymnasium and also to the ceiling in the boys' basement which were in a terrible condition. Great stress has been put on colors that classrooms are painted so as to brighten them and make them more cheerful. We would call your attention to how nice the fourth, fifth and sixth grade room looks.

New fire extinguishers have been installed this year. Working with the PTA we have the children insured to cover all activities and hope to add many needed improvements for the children.

We have given the children their first flourine treatments and hope to continue this service. A complete summary of this dental work will be found under the health section of this report. We would like to bring to the attention of the citizens that the dental work this year was done free of charge by the State Department of Dental Services. Since it will not be possible for us to have this free service each year, it is the opinion of the school board that some type of dental clinic should be sponsored by the school department or by organizations within the town each year.

Respectfully submitted,

BEULAH BEAULIEU, Chairman

Superintendent's Report

To the School Board and Citizens of Carroll:

In this my fifth annual report as your superintendent of schools I will review some of the more important items concerning our school. I urge you to read the reports of your other school officers, especially those of the director of elementary education and the principal.

Staff:

In our high school we had a new staff when school opened in September. Mr. Paul Hackett, principal; Miss Phyllis McKenna, and Mrs. Vera Allen. There has been a complete revision and upgrading of our junior and senior high schools this year. Your principal's report is most complete and I shall not repeat the advances he has mentioned.

At the present time we are without a school nurse; Mrs. Anna Paquette served in this capacity for the first half of the year.

Enrollment:

The following table on present and future school enrollments indicates to some degree what we may expect here at Twin Mountain. The elementary and grades 7 and 8 figures can be considered as quite accurate. However, the figures for our future high school enrollments are probably higher than we shall actually have. This is due to the fact that we have a high drop-out rate after pupils become 16 years of age and after others graduate from the eighth grade.

Continuation of the High School:

The following is a copy of a letter from Dr. Hilton C. Buley, Commissioner of Education. The school board has held an interview with the commissioner relative to retaining the high school here at Twin Mountain. Some action by the citizens of the town should be taken at the annual school meeting on this matter.

Copy of the letter from the Commissioner of Education:

June 18, 1952.

Mr. George Temple, Jr.
Chairman Carroll School Board
Twin Mountain, New Hampshire

Dear Mr. Temple:

The State Board of Education, at its regular meeting June 16, 1952, very carefully examined the ability of your school district to provide an adequate educational opportunity for the children of your high school with an enrollment of only ten pupils. Since it is so evident that an adequate educational program cannot be given for such a small number of pupils, and even then at an excessive cost per pupil, the Board would like to recommend for your consideration the transporting of these pupils to the Whitefield High School.

In fact the Board also wanted me to inform you that it is questionable whether it could approve the Twin Mountain High School beyond the school year 1952-53. As a consequence, your school board should be making plans to take appropriate action, at least in another year, to carry out the above recommendation.

Sincerely yours,
HILTON C. BULEY,
Commissioner of Education

Curriculum Study:

Our high school faculties in Supervisory Union No. 31 are conducting a thorough study of the high school courses offered our boys and girls. Formal meetings are held once each month during the afternoon and evening to consider the individual needs of youth and to re-examine our curriculum.

While we recognize the fact that much remains to be done in our elementary curriculum, we do know that very substantial gains have been made. At one of our high school meetings a panel of elementary teachers outlined the program in the grades and explained the elementary school philosophy of the child development curriculum. Continuity of the philosophy of education throughout the entire school system is most vital.

Mr. Raymond Harris, Executive Secretary of the Northern New Hampshire School Study Council, has been most helpful in assisting us to better meet individual needs of our high school students.

It is expected that by the close of the current school year we shall be ready to restate our high school objectives and modify and improve our teaching materials and methods.

Educational methods and materials are steadily being improved and teachers must keep abreast of the times. Such curriculum studies are merely sound, in-service training programs.

Conclusion:

I express my sincere appreciation to the elementary supervisor, to the school principal, and the members of the educational staff for their cooperation in making our school program effective.

It has been gratifying to work with and for our school board whose one objective is to provide the best education possible for our children.

Respectfully,

C. NEWTON HEATH,
Superintendent of Schools.

Elementary Supervisor's Report

I submit the following report for Twin Mountain School:

The improved program of work which was recently initiated is showing decided evidences of progress in the Elementary grades. Our two teachers, both of whom are co-operating to the best of their ability, are becoming increasingly aware of the problems involved and the challenges presented. The program began with emphasis on Reading. Reading still received the maximum of attention. Grouping is made on an individual pupil basis thus providing each child with the opportunity to succeed at his own Reading level. There has been considerable correlation between Reading and other subject matter. This broadens the scope of the Reading sphere and increases the emphasis on good reading habits.

The Programs of Work have been reorganized to meet the requirements of the new trends of thought and procedures.

We have introduced an extensive Testing program to aid us in detecting the weaknesses and strengths of our teaching policies and to guide us in our attempt to adjust each child to his environment and the Course of Study to each child's needs.

In early fall, Metropolitan Reading Readiness Tests were given to all first grade children. We use the results of these tests to help us determine what background material and innate ability the child has, both in number concept and word meaning, and the degree to which the child is prepared for beginning reading. If he needs more reading readiness, we provide sufficient readiness material for him so that when he does begin to read, the result will be to him a satisfying experience.

Through the first three grades, each of our basic Reading Texts is followed by a comprehensive test covering the general background information of that book.

The test enables us to determine how well the child reads, and understands what he reads. If he is not prepared to begin the next book, we use parallel texts on the child's present level of reading, to enable him to master the fundamentals more thoroughly.

This year we have given the Kuhlman-Anderson Intelligence Tests to the children in Grades 1-6. These tests are reasonably reliable and provide another standard by which to determine the child's needs and to help in creating a total picture.

We expect, toward the end of the school year, to use the Iowa Achievement tests, designed for Grades 3-6, which indicate what progress each child has made through the year, in the major subjects.

I do want to emphasize the fact that these tests are used only in combination with other pertinent data and are never referred to as a final authority.

Our next objective is an individual pupil folder for every child in the school. These folders will include all test results, report card duplicates, permanent record sheets, parent conference blanks, anecdotes and any other related evidence which will help us to know the child better and to give him the guidance he requires for successful living.

The textbook situation is steadily improving, although there are still some areas not provided for. We do need a series of Language books through grades three through six. At the present time there are no texts for the children's use. Workbooks to accompany the texts would be of great value, too. Handwriting rules have not been standardized. Manuals for the teachers would help remedy this situation. There should be a uniform Arithmetic text of recent publication, throughout the grades. An assortment of different kinds often results in overlapping in some areas and skipping important processes in others.

We would like to make some changes in our report cards, since they do not reflect the modern trends in Education.

I have made thirteen trips to Twin Mountain School, and have consulted many times with Mr. Hackett and the two elementary teachers concerning our educational policies. I find the teachers receptive to new suggestions and willing to introduce new methods. My observations in the classrooms have been most rewarding. The work is made interesting and the children participate freely in the activities of the class.

It has been rather difficult to conduct Faculty meetings, so, instead I have discussed plans and problems with each teacher individually.

Mr. Hackett has spared neither time nor effort to encourage parent participation in the Parent Teacher Association and other school activities, and he has attained a good degree of success. To supplement his project, we of the Elementary school, are working on a plan for Parent Conferences. Our aim is to schedule a minimum of at least one conference per pupil during the year. These conferences are designed primarily as a direct contact between home and school, and we feel that the benefit derived from these contacts will be of lasting value. Only as parents and teachers understand each other and each other's goals for the children concerned, and work together toward a common objective, shall we be able to provide an Educational program that meets the requirements of today's youth.

We trust we shall have the parents' cooperation in this venture. We anticipate many pleasant and worthwhile associations.

Respectfully submitted,
BLANCHE M. WITHERELL,
Director of Elementary Education

Curriculum

The Elementary School curriculum is under the direction of Miss Blanche Witherell, Elementary Supervisor. Since she will make a report to you I feel there is no need for duplication here.

I shall report herewith on the high school curriculum. For the most part, the high school curriculum has remained the same this year as in the past. The courses of study fall into three categories; namely, the college course, the commercial course, and the general course. However, at present the entire high school staff is meeting monthly with teachers from the other two communities in the Union. An effort is being made to revise our curriculum so that it will more closely fit our pupils' needs in their adjustment to life, after graduation.

It is our firm hope that next year the staff will have made readjustments in the curriculum that will closely meet the demands of the individual. Minor curriculum changes that have taken place this year are the inclusion of a daily Club period, to promote guidance for pupils in worthy use of leisure time. Our country's improved labor conditions afford adults more free time. This change in curriculum scheduling was made because the staff felt our pupils will have a definite need for knowledge in leisure time planning in their adult life. It is, therefore, the duty of the school to prepare its pupils fully for a well balanced adult life. The following is a list of the clubs:

Junior Audubon	Stamp	Commercial
Dramatic	Glee	Sport

Another innovation this year was a daily physical education period, to develop the many physical traits and needs of our modern day youth.

During the last semester we plan to expand our guidance program further. It is during this time that pupils start thinking about next year's curriculum. By means of a complete testing program, pupil-counselor conferences, and intelligent planning, the staff hopes to prepare the pupil adequately for a useful adult life.

Through the generous foresight of our school board, a fund was set aside for the Audio-Visual Aid Program. We have indeed been very fortunate in expanding this phase of our curriculum.

Scholarship

The scholarship of the entire school is on the upgrade and has shown a very marked improvement since the beginning of the year. However, I feel that in some instances parental interest has not been too evident. Such a statement is prompted by the apparent lack of pupil responsibility and dependability in assignment preparation. It is hoped that the first semester "Pupil Progress Reports", supplementary report cards, will awaken parental interest in the students' scholarship. Parents must realize that in a community of this size, the whole life of the pupil revolves around the school. Disinterest in student scholarship on the part of the parent brings about a halt in the development of the desirable traits of accepting responsibility and displaying signs of dependability—key requisites of any employer.

Graduates

Of the seven graduates of last year, one is attending Junior College; two are in the service of the U. S. Navy; one is associated with the family business; and three are currently wintering at Twin Mountain.

Extra-Curricular Activities

The value of recreation in any well-rounded school program is almost limitless because of the vast potentialities involved in preparing for adult life. The calendar of Activities here at Twin Mountain School has been extended this year, with one hundred per cent pupil participation at the high school level.

Plans are now underway to extend the elementary school extra-curricular program along similar lines. It is the belief of the school teaching staff that with guidance from the high school key leaders, the elementary pupils will be able to enrich their social development through a series of basic extra-curricular activities.

High points of this program for the past semester have been the two major programs in which the entire school participated. The Senior Class, with the capable assistance of the other high and junior high school classes, sponsored a very successful Halloween Party. The pupils, with the assistance of faithful Alumni and community organizations, plan to make this an annual affair. The attendance at this affair was exceptional and the enthusiastic approval of the townspeople was heard for months after. Here, we have an excellent example of pupil-cooperative effort to uphold juvenile reputation and erase any stigmatism evolving from past performances on Halloween.

The second memorable event, also an all-school presentation, was the annual Christmas party. Tireless pupil-teacher preparations were rewarded by an especially receptive audience. The picture of the Primary Rhythm Band cheerfully whirling through "Rudolph"; the rollicking laughter of the audience at the show stealing recitations of the intermediate grades; followed by the combined junior-senior high school Glee Club, the comedy performed by the high school Dramatic Club and concluding with a personal visit from Santa himself, will serve as a refreshing memory for all who attended.

At present the Skiing Program is under way, with all grades participating. One afternoon a week, skiing lessons are available for all pupils who wish to participate. The Ski Team also plans to enter several meets this year. Additional athletics in the program are found in the performance of both girls' and boys' basketball teams. The girls' team, displaying a wealth of excellent material, has been upholding Twin's basketball reputation, with a marvelous record to date. Inspiring play, teamwork, and the will to do their best always, gives these girls training in traits upon which they will call in later life. The boys' team, although inexperienced and handicapped by lack of available upper classmen, has been taking its bumps in stride this year. It has been extremely difficult for this "green" team, under pressure of the numerical strength of opposing teams, to come forth with a victory streak of any kind. However, this team, has never given an inch and has established itself as a team of "fighters", that is never willing to submit to defeat until the final whistle. In their future life I feel sure these boys will be able to profit by the lessons they have learned on the basketball floor.

Other activities in the program this year have been:

1. Square Dancing Lessons (handicapped by lack of an adequate recording machine and loud speaker).
2. Christmas Workshop (a "fix-it" project where high school pupils repaired broken toys and returned "old-favorites" in good condition to elementary pupils).
3. Field Trips for various Club Organizations.
4. Publishing School Newspaper.
5. Working on School Yearbook.
6. Sponsoring social events—dances, card parties, food sales.

7. Sponsoring benefit basketball game for March of Dimes.

8. Setting up Court Room—Jury System, Type of Student Government.

9. Operating a school sponsored national Presidential Election vote.

10. Planning and setting up Intramural Athletic Program.

11. Teaching Volleyball and Badminton lessons to younger pupils.

The foregoing is a list of some of the more outstanding activities in the extra-curricular program to date.

Community Interest

Community interest in the school this year has been exceptional and much has been accomplished by the townspeople for the school. The local P. T. A. organization has experienced a period of steady growth under the able leadership of our former and present officers; and since the first meeting this year all officers and members have worked tirelessly in reorganizing this association and increasing membership. Regular P. T. A. dues have been established and collected. The Association is open to anyone interested in the welfare of the school, parent and non-parent alike. This organization has been instrumental in arranging accident insurance coverage for all pupils in school, sponsoring social events, and working toward the eventual establishment of a 4-H Club here at Twin. The P. T. A. is presently aiming for a new phonograph and loudspeaker for the school. They also hope to start work on a third goal for the year—the purchase of a Film-Strip Projector for classroom use by all grades. The P. T. A. is still not up to full strength, but it certainly is doing a marvelous piece of work in helping meet some of our more urgent school needs.

This is the first year we have had any accident insurance here at Twin and without it our skiing program probably would not have materialized. The administration, faculty and pupils would like to express through this report their appreciation for all the P. T. A. has done, is doing, and plans to do to improve our school.

Many residents of the town have shown great community interest in the school, by supporting school activities, offering assistance to pupils, faculty and school organizations. This is truly appreciated. Some residents have even offered some very valuable constructive criticism this past semester which is also appreciated. However, at times an air of destructive criticism can also be detected. It is very difficult to track down this sort of criticism since it never really brings itself out into the open. The school staff, the pupils, the P. T. A. organization, and many interested townspeople have earnestly worked long and hard to improve our school this past semester. This sort of criticism can defeat the purposes for which these people have so unselfishly worked. The school authorities will always be available to discuss with anyone in town problems pertaining to the school. It has been said that discontent is the first step in the ladder of progress. If properly channeled such discontent can bring about positive results.

School Needs

There are some definite needs or goals to be achieved here at Twin Mountain High School. These are listed for your attention:

1. Cultural Arts Assistance—a definite need for a well-balanced music program throughout the school. Also assistance to teachers in Art work to develop natural talent.
2. Curtain for school auditorium stage.
3. Provisions for meeting needs of pupils in Home Economics and Elementary Industrial Arts.
4. Partition in boiler room for boys' locker room.

Conclusion

In conclusion I might state that at the end of the semester we sent out "Pupil Progress Reports" to all parents. This took a considerable amount of extra time on the part of each teacher and it is our hope that these reports lead to a series of Parent-Teacher Conferences, better understanding of the individual pupil's scholastic and social progress, and the opportunity for parent participation in guiding pupils aptly.

I should also like to express my sincere thanks to all the pupils for their spirit of cooperation. It is a pleasure to teach, work with and guide a group of youngsters who don't ask for anything they aren't willing to work for to improve their school. Examples of this spirit are: the girls' basketball team running an activity to purchase new uniforms; the boys' team doing the same to purchase new warm-up jackets; the boys painting of both boys' and girls' locker room floors, plus scrubbing boiler room floor for painting and in setting up and lighting their own locker room in the boiler room; and tracing down the classroom and fire bell wires and putting same back into operation.

My appreciation to you, Mr. Heath, the school board, and my fellow faculty members.

Respectfully submitted,
PAUL F. HACKETT,
Principal
